Digital Invitation Send Card

Which ways of sending keep the tap working - in Canva's own words. Verified 28 October 2026.

WHERE THE TAP SURVIVES - FROM CANVA'S OWN HELP PAGE

Published website	WORKS	send the link - the way this card recommends
PDF (standard)	WORKS	"Links remain clickable by downloading your design as a PDF"
Presenting	WORKS	only while you are presenting it yourself
PDF (flattened)	DEAD	"...except flattened PDFs"
PNG / JPG	DEAD	"Hyperlinks will not work on PNGs, JPGs, MP4s..."
MP4 video	DEAD	"only clickable in the Presenter window"
Posted to social	DEAD	"...or when you post your design on social media"

THE BUILD - THREE PAGES, ONE WEBSITE

Start from a WEBSITE template (search "website"). Not a poster, not a post - and not a mobile site or link in bio: Canva says those publish to a canva.link address only. Each page publishes as "a separate scrollable page on the same website".

- Page 1 The envelope. Big, a seal with the initial, and the words: You're invited - tap to open.
- Page 2 The opened card: what, when, where - one line each, readable without zooming.
- Page 3 The details: address + map button, reply button, dress code, parking, gift list.

Link: select the envelope > More > Link > Pages in this document > page 2. Same for the words.
Keep the envelope and the words as separate pieces, both linked - a tap anywhere near it opens it.

PUBLISH IT FREE - TWO LIMITS TO KNOW

Publish website > site address (keep it short) > Settings > turn on Resize on mobile > Continue > Publish.
1. "Canva Free users can have up to five live websites on the free domain." Unpublish an invitation after the event and the slot is yours again.
2. Canva Free publishes up to 10 sections per page. If something is missing on the published site, check that first.

SEVEN CHECKS BEFORE A SINGLE GUEST SEES IT

* It was made from a website template
* The envelope AND the words both link to page 2
* Page 2 links to the details page
* Every button on the details page goes where it says
* You opened the PUBLISHED link on a phone, from a message, and tapped through every page
* Every line is readable with the phone at arm's length
* You are sending the link - not the PNG, not the MP4

The fifth is the one nobody does - everything works in the editor. Your guests are not in the editor.
